

Blind Spot

- Hold a test strip out at arm's length with the smiley face on the left and the star on the right.

- Close your left eye, and use your right eye to look at the smiley face. (You will notice that even though you are looking only at the smiley face, you can still see the star with your side vision.)
- Slowly move the test strip toward your right eye, making sure to look only at the smiley face.
- At some point you will notice that the star in your side vision will disappear.

Question(s)

Why don't we usually notice the blind spot in our vision?
